

Seeing Clear Into the Future

Weekly Report 3/11/19 to 3/17/19

This week was officially the beginning of the eyeglasses drive. With the drive kicking off on the fourth of March, students are encouraged to collect any used or old glasses they may have at home, in order to send off to people in need, along with hopefully sustaining the goal of 1,000 glasses collected. The goal for this week was not only to ensure that any last minute details on the Final Product Proposal and Final Product Calendar were added, but also to simply enjoy the progress that has been made thus far and the hard work that has gone into pulling off such a large event such as the drive. It is reassuring to know that everything has fallen into place and a large section of my Final Product is finally taking action.

Throughout the week I not only worked on the Final Product Proposal and the Final Product Calendar, but also made any needed adjustments to my website. Considering throughout the week parents and students will be checking out the website to learn more about the drive, it was essential to make sure that everything was organized and ready. If adults and people throughout the community are looking at my website, I would like to have everything looking professional and completed.

In addition to this week, an email was sent to Mr. Holsinger to confirm any details about the visit to Watauga, TX in late April. Once I got a response, I was able to forward the information to Dr. Brooks, to see if this event could be a part of my Final Product. At the end of the week I had the opportunity to visit one of the elementary schools in participation of the Eyeglasses Drive: Boals Elementary. I gave a short speech informing the kids about the drive, where to donate, and what the project is all about.

Lastly, to conclude the week, I found that a lady from Dallas contacted me through my website, stating that she would like to donate to my cause. This is exciting because my project is reaching outside the walls of Frisco and touching other local areas. I will need to keep in touch with this lady, in order to see if she is still interested in donating to the drive.

For the following week the goal is to contact any local newspapers, in order to write an article and hopefully publish it before June. This would announce to the community how the drive went, what ISM is, how the experience was for various schools, and the idea that FISD could potentially adopt this drive into every elementary school, making the drive a yearly event.
